Oscar Jerrell and John Anderson
Have Remarkable Escape When Roadster Hits Interurban.

MEN NOT SERIOUSLY HURT

Enroute to Hamilton Township to Get Disabled Auto Belonging to Anderson's Brother.

John Anderson and Oscar Jerrell, both of whom live in Glenlawn, had a remarkable escape from serious injury late Wednesday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a northbound interurban car at the Sixth street crossing. Both men were hurled from the automobile which was a small roadster, but escaped with slight injuries. Jerrell, it was thought at the time of the accident, had suffered internal injuries, but this morning his condition is much improved. Both men were removed to their homes after the accident.

The men were enroute to Hamilton township to bring back a disabled automobile belonging to Whit Anderson, brother of the injured man. Jerrell had arranged to drive John Anderson to Hamilton township in his roadster. The men were driving west on Sixth street and apparently did not notice the northbound car which was a short distance from the crossing. The roadster, it is said, crashed into the traction car which was stopped within a half car length after the accident. A step was ripped from the interurban car.

Jerrell was driving the roadster

NO AUSTRALIAN TAKE ALL IN JACKSON COUNTY

C. W. Gardner, of Purdue University,
Inspects Several Fields in Carr Township.

Jackson county wheat has not been affected by the "Australian Take All" the new disease which has done considerable damage to fields in surrounding counties, according to C. W. Gardner, an expert of Purdue University, who made an inspection of several wheat fields in Carr township Wednesday. Some of the worst fields were selected for the inspection but Prof. Gardner was unable to find any indications that the new disease had made its appearance.

Of the fields inspected by Prof. Gardner it was estimated that damage caused by the unfavorable weather conditions of the past few weeks will range from ten to fifty per cent. It is the opinion of the expert that wheat on the clay soil has not been injured.

FIRE INSURANCE RATES ARE UNIFORM THROUGHOUT STATE

Only Published Tariffs Prevail, According to Law Passed by the Last Legislature.

Willard Stout, county clerk, has received notice from the insurance department of the state auditor's office that the new law passed by the last legislature providing that all fire insurance rates must be governed by the published schedule is now in effect. A special bureau is placed in charge of rate fixing for fire risks.

Special attention is called to section 9 of the act which reads:

"All rates, subject to the provisions of this act, that are published or in force upon the day this act becomes effective shall be effective as the bureau rates and changes shall only be made by changes in the risk or hazard. A charge of discrimination shall not be predicated upon any such rates in force at the time this act takes effect."

The secretary of state in his letter to the county clerk adds:

"There are a number of risks in the state of Indiana that have been written at less than tariff or published rates and these are the rates that are now in force. If any attempt is made by agents or companies to increase these rates because same are published rates, the matter should be referred to this office."

WILSON SENDS MEMORIAL DAY ADDRESS TO PUBLIC

Mandate of the Day to Fulfill Hopes of Men Who Gave Their Lives for Liberty.

By United Press

Washington, May 29.—President Wilson in a Memorial day message to the American people today declared that the "impressive lesson and the inspiring mandate of the day" is to fulfill the hopes and purposes to the utmost of the men who sacrificed their lives for the country.

It was for the "maintenance of the liberty of the world and of the union of its people in a single comradeship of liberty and of right," that "our men conscientiously offered their lives," the president asserted.

The message, cabled to the White House, reads:

"Memorial day wears this year an added significance and I wish, if only by a message, to take part with you in its observation and in expressing the sentiments which it invariably suggests. In observing the day we commemorate not only the reunion of our own country, but also now the liberation of the world from one of the most serious dangers to which free government and the free life of men were exposed.

"We have buried the gallant and now the immortal men who died in this great war of liberation with a new sense of consecration. Our thoughts and our purposes now are consecrated to the maintenance of the liberty of the world and of the union of its people in a single comradeship of liberty and of right. It was for this that our men conscientiously offered their lives. They came to the field of battle with the high spirit and pure heart of crusaders.

"We must never forget the duty that their sacrifice has laid upon us of fulfilling their hopes and their purposes to the utmost. This, it seems to me is the impressive lesson and the inspiring mandate of the day."

WAR CABINET IS COMPLETING WORK

Practically All Members Are Ready to Resign Upon President's Return to Washington.

EVEN BAKER MAY QUIT SOON

Fuel Administrator Has Relinquished
Post, But Remains in Washington.

By United Press

Washington, May 29.—With the return of President Wilson imminent and a declaration of peace in the offing, members of the administration "war cabinet" are preparing to relinquish their posts.

Already several resignations are before the president and others will be submitted when he returns. Those who are expected to quit their war jobs within the next few months are:

Herbert Hoover, chairman of the food administration; Vance McCormick, chairman of the war trade board; Bernard Baruch, chairman of the war industries board; George Creel, chairman of the committee on public information; Harry Garfield, chairman of the fuel administration and Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the shipping board and emergency fleet corporation.

In addition friends of Secretary of War Baker say that President Wilson knows Baker's desire to relinquish his portfolio in the cabinet as soon as the war work in the army has been cleaned up, congress has completed investigations it has in mind and the president feels he can spare him.

It was officially stated today that Baker has no intention of resigning now. Unofficially, however, it is said he feels the same today as he did when the president began his second term—that he would like to get back to private work as soon as possible.

Garfield has resigned but is spending some time in Washington, completing his report and closing up details preliminary to the passing out of his board with the declaration of peace.

Creel has submitted his resignation, but the president has not yet accepted it. The committee on public information is still working here but it is stated that nothing is being done except cleaning up accounts so that Creel may make his report to the president.

Chairman Hurley of the shipping board wishes to remain at his post only until some definite policy for the merchant marine has been determined upon. He will then resign.

Hoover had planned to get out by July 1, but his work in Europe may keep him there until late in July or the first of August, according to information received here.

Work of the war trade and war industries board, created by executive order for the war period, is expected to cease with the declaration of peace.

Chairman Baruch of the war industries board, is now in Paris with the peace commission as is Chairman McCormick of the war trade board. Both, however, have directed preparation of reports on the work of their respective agencies to be ready for the president when he returns.

Disposition of the war agencies created by executive order will be one of the first things before the president when he returns. Accountings for millions of dollars spent by the different agencies are being compiled now for his perusal and approval.

Final Approval to Terms to Austria to be Given by Allies and Associated Powers Tomorrow.

By United Press

Paris, May 29.—Presentation of the treaty to the Austrian delegates was postponed until Monday after a plenary session of the peace conference today. The conference met in plenary session to hear a summary of the Roumanian treaty read. Just before the session Premier Venizelos of Greece and the foreign premier of Roumania engaged in a wordy argument. As soon as the conference convened the Roumanian premier requested a forty-eight hour postponement in the name of the Balkan states. This was granted. The time was asked to study the treaty. The summary was not ready. The conference will meet Saturday and in the meantime portions of the treaty will be submitted privately to the Roumanian representatives, it is understood.

The German counter proposals were delivered at the foreign office today. Count Brockdorff Rantzau German foreign minister is expected to leave for home before the week end but he—or a successor if he withdraws from the delegation—is expected back in time to sign the treaty. The counter proposals were delivered to an official of the foreign office at Versailles and taken to Paris to be laid before the "big four."

Paris, May 29.—The first section of the German counter proposals to the peace treaty has been delivered to the foreign office, it was announced today. The first section comprised one-third of the total German answer, and was twenty thousand words in length. The remainder of the counter proposals will be delivered this afternoon.

Translation of the first section was begun immediately.

Representatives of the nations which crushed Austria meet in the French foreign office today to give final approval to the terms which decree the condition under which the former empire may continue to exist.

A summary of the peace terms was ready for submission to delegates of all the states that fought or severed relations with Austria. The summary was to be submitted to the allies and associated powers' representatives at a secret plenary session.

MILITARY TRAINING IN HIGH SCHOOLS URGED

Secretary Baker Presents General Plan—Vocational Education in Army.

By United Press

Washington, May 29.—Military training in connection with universities and high schools was advocated to the house military affairs committee by Secretary Baker today. Although he did not give specific details of his plan, Baker stated he hopes to see the army an "institution of education." Men in the army should be trained in educational and vocational matters as well as military science, he said.

Baker said he had instructed the general staff to begin development of the educational plan immediately. Chairman Kahn of the house military affairs committee, expects to give his peace time military program to the house next Monday.

ARROGANCE SUPREME.

If any one who has not been following the proceedings of the world peace conference should chance to read the German counter proposals, he would believe that Germany had been the victor in the world war and as dictating terms to the allies. Never in the history of the world has a defeated nation manifested such arrogance as has Germany. Such tactics may make an impression upon some of the peace delegates, but it is quite certain that they do not meet with the approval of the American public. A HOT SPOT Chalmers is a nimble creature of steel

AFTER you've had one ride in a Hot Spot Chalmers you'll wonder how it is possible to put so much "action," so much eagerness, so much desire-to-go in a ton-and-a-half of steel.

Take the engine out of the chassis and you have a car more or less like many others.

Put in the engine, and you have all the difference in the world.

For this great engine of the present Chalmers (medium sized though it be) has a way of making gas perform as no other engine ever has done.

The reason why is Hot Spot. Which "pulverizes" gas into a very "dry" state. This "dry" gas is then passed on to the cylinders via Ram's-horn and when those six spark plugs ignite the fuel there's action deluxe.

Hence you find a certain, indefinable nimbleness to a Chalmers that is tempting whether you're a front seat or a rear seat driver.

Don't be old-fashioned about a car. See the new day Chalmers.

RAINBOW BAND COMING

Reginald Brinklow, Former Seymour Boy is Director of Organization.

People of Seymour and Jackson county are anxious to hear Indiana's Rainbow band in concert, and beyond a doubt the Majestic theater will be taxed to its capacity to hear them on June 4.

Through the efforts of several interested Seymour citizens who have guaranteed $600 as the expenses of the evening it is possible for Seymour to hear a concert by this veteran band, and in offering a guarantee of expenses it has been made possible that the musical organization of the 150th Field Artillery, consisting of the band, the famous Rainbow saxophone sextette, and other features come to Seymour on June 4.

Since most of the members of Indiana's Rainbow band feel that they must soon return to their pre-war occupation only a short tour of ten or twelve towns in the state is being made. That means that many citizens of Indiana will be deprived of the opportunity of hearing the music that cheered the boys "over there."

Ida Larabee, of Hayden, spent Wednesday here shopping.

On the eve of the presentation of the terms to Austria the allies are still in disagreement over the Italian claims to territory in the Adriatic, it is understood. It was reported a plebiscite to decide the fate of eastern Austria had been proposed. The Italians, it was stated, had indicated a willingness to make some concessions. The fact that the allies are in disagreement over important clauses at the eleventh hour, however, will not interfere with presentation of the treaty tomorrow, it was pointed out. If the Italian claims are still in dispute when time comes for informing the Austrians of the terms, sections referring to the Adriatic will be withheld and made known after a settlement is reached.

DEMOCRATS TO MAKE COVENANT MAIN ISSUE

League of Nations Will Be Paramount Question, According to National Committee.

By United Press

Chicago, May 29.—Rejection or acceptance of the league of nations was seen by Democrats here today to be the paramount issue of the 1920 campaign.

The issue was named late yesterday when the democratic national committee, in session here, adopted resolutions demanding ratification of the league by the republication congress.

Democrats believed rejection might force President Wilson to be a third term candidate. Shortly after the Democrats had gone on record calling for immediate approval or disapproval of Republicans, former President William Howard Taft appealed to Republicans and opposing Democrats alike to decide the question without regard to "party or political effect."

"FIT TO WIN."

The people of Seymour are to have the exceptional opportunity to witness the most unusual and dramatic motion picture so far recorded in the history of the motion picture industry. "Fit To Win," will be shown exclusively for men this afternoon and evening, and for women Friday afternoon and evening at the Strand Theatre commencing at 2:15 and 7:15 o'clock. Children under sixteen will not be admitted.

This great drama was originally written and produced by Lieutenant E. H. Griffith of the United States Army, at the recommendation and order of Surgeon General Gorgas of the U. S. Army. The story deals with some of the most tragic of all human experiences in the light of the results growing out of the age old system of commercialized vice.

The picture was first used exclusively in the United States Army camps in order to bring vividly to the attention of our fighting forces the absolute necessity of knowing the truth regarding the ever present menace of venereal diseases, that they might avoid the consequences and remain physically and morally fit to fight the war for democracy.

So instant was the picture's success and so compelling its high moral effect that the United States Public Health Service has deemed it best to view this unusually frank and fearless story of conditions which are common to every-day life, and which must be strenuously combatted if the future of the country is to be free from the vicious influences which heretofore have dominated and degraded its social as well as political life. In brief, the country must now be made safe for posterity.

So skillfully has the subject been interwoven and picturized that the story of five young American soldiers has already had a profound effect among the thousands of men and women who have been privileged to witness the trials and experiences of its cleverly contrasted characters.

Staunch, true-hearted little Rosie McCabe will touch your heart-strings and revive any waning belief in human nature. Kid McCarthy, her wayward sweetheart, trained in the science of the prize ring, reads a deep meaning in the "knockout" delivered by Billy Hale.

Your sympathy will go out to Hank, a simple country youth, ignorant of the city's tawdry pitfalls.

The picture which is under the auspices of the U. S. Public Health Service, is brought to Seymour under the personal supervision of Mr. Shepard, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Watch for the opinions of the officials and professional men of this city, in tomorrow's Republican.

Dr. D. L. Perrin and Dr. A. G. Osterman will lecture on the subject of venereal diseases and the patrons will be invited to participate in an open discussion on the subject, following the exhibition of the picture. Advertisement.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford One Ton Truck may well be classed as an agricultural necessity, it fits into and fills so many wants on the farm. It is a reliable bearer of farm burdens, not only doing the work of several horses quicker and better than the horse, and does not "eat its head off" when not working. The aggressive farmer has only to consider the possibilities of the Ford truck and he is ready to buy one. We judge this to be so from the way farmers are buying them. Truck Chassis $550 f. o. b. HOOVER'S

To Buy Waste With Thrift Stamps

Every man, woman, and child in New England now has a chance to obtain war savings and thrift stamps without the least cost to themselves. All that is necessary is to collect the things usually thrown away and then to sell them to the Government.

The smallest scraps of paper, empty bottles, rags, bits of tinfoil, pieces of rubber—all may be turned into stamps. Moreover, it will be no trouble for anyone to dispose of an accumulated stock of waste material, for every village, town, and city in that part of the country is organizing agencies through which the Government may buy what would otherwise go to the dumping grounds.

The Waste Reclamation Service of the Department of Commerce has formulated a plan to save millions of dollars. It is a cooperative plan that works admirably with the National Clean-up and Paint-Up movement which the United States Department of Labor is supporting in connection with its Own-Your-Own-Home campaign and which is of interest to all the housewives of the country. The plan includes all the departments of the Government and it reaches out to every inhabitant of the United States.

Local waste reclamation councils are to be established in each community. These will be composed of representatives of cooperating national organizations who will be selected by mayors. Wherever practicable special weeks will be designated for the collection of certain commodities. There will be a Paper Week, a Metal Week, and a Rubber Week. The councils will conduct educational campaigns in which the value of waste materials and the duty of conserving the resources of the country are taught. Newspapers will be asked to aid in this part of the work, and they are already volunteering hearty support.

The importance of enlisting in the Waste Reclamation Service movement at this time when spring days encourage the cleaning of houses, shops, and city streets, is emphasized by the Government, for it is hoped to salvage a large part of the refuse that is generally destroyed by carting to city dumps. The war taught the country a few primary lessons in saving and statistics gathered during the two years in which the United States grimly faced the possibility of a long conflict have demonstrated the prodigality of people accustomed to peace and plenty.

No nation in the world used so much paper as we find it necessary to utilize in our complex activities. America actually sends to the dump twice as much paper as Great Britain collected in 1914 when 6,000 tons a week were gathered under stress of war needs. Eight trees of mature growth are required to make a ton of pulp. A ton of waste paper will save eight trees. Two million tons of boxwood were manufactured from old paper last year. If this paper had not been salvaged, 16,000,000 trees would have been sacrificed. By helping to save paper, citizens ally themselves with the Forestry Service.

It is estimated that 8 per cent of every ton of waste sent to the dumps is composed of rags. Dump rags can be used for making roofing felt. To destroy them, therefore, is to increase the cost of building. Clean rags are needed for manufacturing paper. Other materials that are enumerated as on the list exchangeable for war-savings and thrift stamps are: Canvas, books, magazines, pasteboard containers of all kinds, iron, steel, copper, brass, tin foil, and rubber.

In places where the Waste Reclamation Service has not yet established councils, the salvaging of saleable materials can be assured by the co-operation of Clean-Up and Paint-Up committees. Wherever the councils are in operation they will be of great assistance to the Clean-Up and Paint-Up movement. According to the plans for the operation of the councils each community is districted a waste dealer being assigned to each district. To these dealers housewives and shop dealers may sell the things they are discarding. A standard scale of prices will be maintained.—U. S. Department of Labor.

Veils

The veil is one of the most ancient articles of woman's attire and has never been entirely in disuse since its earliest inception.

But the modes of the veil have been many and varied, and the purpose of its use equally numerous and interesting. Always, however, there have unquestionably been foremost in mind the thought of concealment, for protection and various reasons.

Through all nations and in particularly all countries the habit of veiling the features of women has persisted.

In many instances this veiling of the feminine face has been compulsory. Then again it has been commanded by fashion, which has in many cases been as compulsory a ruling as any of creed, cult or custom. And the value of the veil is definitely and completely fixed, or should be, in every one's mind by the knowledge that in this day and age, right here in the free United States, where no religion or state law controls our dress and where even fashion's ruling must meet individual needs and ideas of dress, the veil is accepted as the finishing touch to a correct and stylish costume.

Recognized as an essential of smart attire, the veil has still an even more powerful hold upon the minds of women, the subtle force of knowledge that the veil is a shield, a weapon if you will, that protects and defends, that creates illusion, that charms, allures and mystifies.

We are all still daughters of Eve—coquetry is an inheritance of all women. Only the exception, the very modern advanced female, has discarded coquetry for equal rights, and even these, with keen desire to protect themselves from dirt and microbes, accept the veil for hygienic reasons.

We just can't get away from the veil, and even with the vote a natural privilege there will still be a big and overwhelming majority of women who will use the veil of fashion's dictate for the same feminine reasons that have persisted through all periods of fashion.

The eternal feminine thought is too long established to be wiped out over night, as it were, figuring time from the period when humans began to clothe and adorn the body.

And this is said with no disrespect intended but from the standpoint of what might be considered by some but an elementary analysis of human nature.

Think it over for yourselves. Compulsory rules and regulations, laws even, education, the changing of the customs or conventions—none of these have yet made over completely and permanently and happily nature, human nature.

The veil is the thing for a pretty woman and equally so for the plain woman; the clever woman, pretty or plain—and it must be admitted that most clever women are plain rather than pretty—knows the full value of a veil and is seldom seen without one, no matter what type of hat is worn.

Some practical women, some economically inclined women will say a veil is a luxury and an extravagance. These women are only seemingly practical, are indifferent rather than practically economical, for they have failed to understand that a good veil of established make is like any other trade-marked article, guaranteed to be of good quality.

But of course one should remember that a veil is a fragile thing that must needs have gentle handling, must be put on and taken off carefully and intelligently.

So many times we condemn an article of apparel—corsets, gloves, stockings, veils and similar things that should be carefully handled—simply because our own poor, reckless, shiftless, absolutely unintelligent use of them mars them quickly, makes them unfit and unsightly in too short a time.

Like New Cottons.

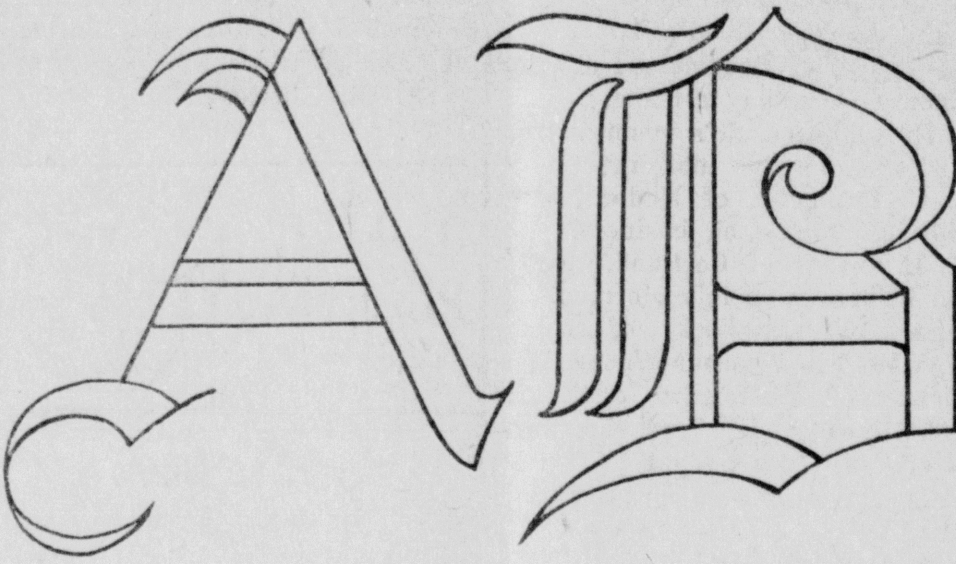

The new cottons are lovely. They somewhat resemble the old English prints and are charming when combined with white or delicately colored organdie. Even georgette crepe and crepe de chine are to be used in combination with these cottons. One may see, for instance, a blouse of print worn with a soft, clinging skirt of white crepe de chine. These prints also come with borders which may be utilized to excellent advantage for pockets, girdles and trimmings.

Favorite Recipes

GEMS

½ cup brown sugar; ½ cup butter; 2 eggs; 1 cup sour milk with one teaspoonful soda; 1½ cups graham flour; ½ lb dates, chopped; flavor with nutmeg.

Bake twenty to thirty minutes in moderate oven.

COCOANUT FUDGE

2 cups granulated sugar; 1½ squares chocolate shaved fine; butter size of an egg; 1 cup milk; 3 tablespoonfuls cocoanut.

Boil ingredients except cocoanut until it forms a ball when dropped in cold water. Remove from fire; beat for few minutes, then add cocoanut. Continue beating until cool. Spread on buttered plates and cut in squares.

COCOANUT CREAM CANDY

1½ cups sugar; ½ cup milk; 2 teaspoonfuls butter; 1 cupful cocoanut; ½ teaspoonful vanilla.

Boil sugar milk and butter twenty minutes, stirring only until the sugar is dissolved. Remove from the stove, add cocoanut and vanilla; beat until creamy and pour into buttered tins. This is especially delicious poured over chocolate fudge.

SNOW

3 cups white sugar; ½ cup maple sugar; 2-3 cup water; 1 teaspoonful vanilla or pineapple extract; 2 stiffly beaten egg whites; 1½ cups cocoanut.

Boil sugars and water until soft ball forms when tried in cold water. Add flavoring and pour on whites, beating until slightly cooled. Pour mixture into buttered pan on which the cocoanut has been spread. When almost cold cut into squares.

ELDER BLOSSOM WINE

9 pounds sugar; 3 gallons water; 1 cake yeast; ½ cup lemon juice; 1 quart elder blossoms picked from stems; 2 pounds raisins; 1 pound dates; 1 pound figs.

Dissolve sugar and water over fire, let come to boil without stirring. Boil five minutes, skim and add blossoms. Stir well, take from fire and cook. When lukewarm add yeast dissolved in warm water and lemon juice. Put in earthen jar and let stand six days, stirring blossoms from bottom of jar several times daily. On seventh day strain through cloth, add raisins, dates and figs. Cover tightly and bottle in January.

SCALLOPED SALMON.

Take one can of salmon, one of peas, two cups of bread crumbs or crackers, and season well with salt and pepper. Make a good cream dressing and put into a baking dish with alternate layers of the salmon, peas and crumbs, with a layer of bread crumbs on top.

CUP CAKE.

One cup of butter, two of sugar, three of flour and four eggs; make this the one, two, three and four cake. Beat the whites and the yolks separately, add half a cup of milk and three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, sifted into the flour. Fold into this mixture the beaten whites last of all, with essence of lemon, and bake in a loaf.

TURNIPS.

This is the time of year when mutton is served quite often and turnips go well with it, but the lumpy turnips that are often placed upon the table are different far from the well cooked, well mashed turnips that they should be. Let the turnips boil long enough to be tender and then mash with a fork until there are no lumps. Add salt and pepper, a little butter or bacon fat and just before serving mix with a spoonful of cream. Some cooks like nutmeg, but one has to be educated to that.

BAKED HASHED BROWN POTATOES.

Fry together sliced potatoes and onions, and mix with them while frying three green peppers cut up fine. Place in a baking dish, when well fried, having been careful not to burn, and pour over the mixture a nice cream sauce and a cup of grated cheese. Let bake for a quarter of an hour or more.

CODDLED STEAK.

Get a nice, round steak, rather thick, and season with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Have a large frying pan in which place two tablespoonfuls of butter and a finely chopped onion and when the onion is browned place the meat in the pan and nearly fill with hot water. Season with salt and pepper and a touch of Worcestershire sauce. Let simmer until meat is tender, trying it and turning quite frequently, that it may be cooked through. Serve the gravy in a separate dish. This is a good way to cook a tough steak.

Sleeves Must Be Short.

The edict of fashion is that sleeves in dresses and frocks may be any type or style, but they must be short; that is less than wrist length.

Dress Shields

It doesn't make any difference how fashionably one is gowned nor how expensive are one's clothes if there is the slightest suggestion of carelessness in the care of the clothes.

Dust in the folds or pleatings will ruin the appearance of the most ultra smart frock.

Stains of any character—a slight splashing on the street crossing, the trace of powder at the neck of the gown, the unsightly evidence of perspiration—are all things that are unnecessary if one uses the ordinary precautions in obviating them.

This year we find the extremes in sleeves. Paris has abbreviated sleeves for every gown apparently that is to be worn in the house, but among the multitudinous models for street and all the occasions taking one out of the home we find the long close sleeves featured very extensively. With such frocks or suits or blouses there is only one sure road to constant freshness and stainless beauty, and that is by way of the well selected, well-adjusted dress shield.

It has a very nice significance—the shield: it means to ward off, to defend, to protect.

Companionship

By Martin G. Brumbaugh.

One of the best men I ever knew gave to this country three splendid sons, loyal, capable and conscientious. I once asked him how he managed to do it. He said: "I have always made my boys my companions." In the intimate comradeship of father and son there arose the occasion to teach the boys what it is to be a really fine American and a Christian gentleman. The father's wise procedure made three eminent citizens of his sons.

The strength of a nation lies in its spiritual forces, not in its material gains, and the great agencies that conserve spiritual ideals are the home, the church and the school. Unfortunately the home, where most of this should be done, really does the least.

All parents holding love for children and country will endeavor to perform their most important duty of maintaining and imparting high ideals, for in the coming days as never before we must give intelligent guidance to our children.

My own father, after church, on Sunday afternoons, often accompanied his three boys to the mountains or forests. There in the cool and silence he gave us many suggestions that have ripened into inestimable good in the years that have come and gone since he can no longer walk with us. We do not see him but we feel his presence and gratefully follow his fine teachings.

I urge all fathers to have personal and intimate converse with their sons, and this can be done from the time they are tiny fellows. Impress lofty ideals of duty to God and country. Teach the value of the great cardinal virtues of courtesy, reliability and humanity, without which life is a mockery.

New Spring Hat Fashions.

A tufted hat of dark blue taffeta, with a steel bead fastened in each tuft, is not only charming in itself, but capable of several deviations from the original that would be quite worth while.

Brim that turn abruptly back from the face are characteristic of a good many of the spring hats. Trimming is often placed on this back-turned brim in a very effective manner.

Many of the new hats show a band of trimming at the edge of the crown. This is sometimes a row of artificial flowers, fastened with very short stems straight around. Sometimes there is an inset band of silk on the straw, with embroidery in colored cotton thread. Sometimes the trimming consists in tiny ostrich points, upstanding in a band half an inch from the edge of the hat brim.

Supplied With Pockets.

The new sweaters are well provided with pockets and two or three models show pockets in unexpected places. For example, one silk sweater of otherwise conventional design has shirred pockets set at the extreme lower edge of the garment at either side of the front. Above, at ordinary height from the edge, are oblique pocket openings with set-in pockets underneath. Slip-ons for athletic wear now have small breast pockets, hip pockets not being possible on these short sweaters, which are purled in ribs to make them cling below the waistline.

Woman's Land Army Training Courses

The statement that a farmer never knows when he is going to need help till the day after, is being borne out by the calls now deluging the offices of the Woman's Land Army, District of Columbia Division, of the Department of Labor.

The policy of the local branch of the Woman's Land Army is to refrain from seeking openings for farmettes, preferring to give such opportunities to the returning soldiers. But with the garden season well open, and city people turning their attention to their country homes, the dearth of men willing to plow and plant is keenly felt, and insistent calls are pouring into the 1410 Pennsylvania Avenue office, some for immediate help and others asking to be supplied with helpers later in the season.

To meet these emergency calls with trained workers, a training field and commercial garden is being developed where women from offices and schools can work evenings and Saturday afternoons. A 10-acre tract on Blair Road is now being plowed and prepared for immediate planting.

The peace-time program of the Woman's Land Army of America especially features the development of rural community centers, and co-operative work among men and women.

Millinery Novelties.

The current season in the millinery field is more than ordinarily productive of novelties. Among the new things offered are hats of wood fiber straw. This straw is about two inches wide and can be braided or arranged in loops. The same material is seen glazed, and in this form is called chicklet straw. Among the newest trimmings are large, flat flowers made of dotted chiffon in all the pastel shades. They are said to be especially adaptable for use on dress hats. Grapes, raisins and little rosebuds made of soft taffeta are also being used for decorations, as are flowers made of straight ostrich plumes. In colors, jade green seems to be the newest that has found favor.

Umbrellas.

The umbrella manufacturers have found a welcome demand in the business supplied by fancy makes. The colored silks and matched handles and tips have proved quite popular with buyers, who not only placed appreciable orders for such goods when they were here but have put in a good duplicate business. The manufacturers have so fashioned their product now that they have made umbrellas a dress accessory, and this has done more than anything else, it is said, to encourage sales.

Indianapolis, May 29.—Captain Eddie Reickenbacker, American ace of aces, returned to his old stamping ground today and received a royal welcome at the hands of Indiana business men.

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce will give a luncheon in honor of the air fighter at one of the city's leading hotels tomorrow. Officials of the American Automobile Association and Speedway officials—here for the 500 mile Liberty sweepstakes auto classics—are to be guests at the luncheon. Many prominent men will address the gathering and Reickenbacker, himself will talk.

FREED FROM THE PHYSIC HABIT

"I had stomach trouble and constipation very bad for a long time. Tried everything, but kept getting worse. I could hardly eat anything and my bowels wouldn't move unless I took a physic every day. I have to support myself and two children, yet I was not able to work."

"The first bottle of Milks Emulsion did wonders for me, and I have continued its use until now I feel fine and can work every day. I have a good appetite, my stomach trouble has left me, and my bowels are regular as clock work."—Mrs. Mary Widner, 103 S. Court St., Sioux City, Iowa.

Mrs. Widner found out what all sufferers should know—that pills, salts and physics do not end constipation, but usually make it worse.

Milks Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength, Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to run-down nervous people, and it has produced amazing results in many cases of asthma, chronic bronchitis, and tuberculosis of the lungs. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. A truly wonderful medicine for weak, sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion under this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60c and $1.20 per bottle. The Milks Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold and guaranteed by C. E. Loertz

CHAPTER VIII.

A Victory and a Defeat.

I arose silently to my feet, fully aware that all hope of thwarting this villainy lay in immediate action. Sanchez had turned slightly and stood with his face toward the bay. I ventured a cautious step forward and stood on the open sand, scarcely a yard to his rear. Some vague sense of my presence must have influenced the man, for he swung suddenly about, uttering a stifled cry of startled surprise, as we met face to face. For an instant we were locked so closely within each other's desperate grip, his head bent beneath my arm, with my fingers clutching at his throat to block any call for help, that he possessed no knowledge of his assailant's identity. But the man was like a tiger. The surprise of attack was to my advantage, yet almost before I realized what was being done he had rallied, broken my first hold, and his eyes were glaring straight into mine. Then he knew me, his free hand instantly grasping at his knife. Even as he jerked it forth I crushed his wrist within my fingers, forcing his forearm back. There was no outcry, no noise, except that of our heavy breathing and trampling feet. Personal hatred had ascended in both our hearts—I doubt if he ever thought of aught else but the desire to kill me there with his own hands. Only once did he even utter a word, hissing out the sentence as though it were a poison:

"To hell with you, you sneaking English cur!"

What followed has to me no clearness, no consistency. Never have I fought with deeper realization that I needed every ounce of strength and every trick of wit and skill. Now I knew the fellow possessed greater knowledge of the game than I and a quicker movement; I excelled in weight of body and coolness of brain. Twice he pricked me deep enough to draw blood, before I succeeded in twisting backward the arm with which he held the blade. He met the game too late, failing half back upon one knee, hoping thus to foil my purpose. There was the sharp crack of a bone, as his useless fingers let the knife drop, a snarled curse of pain, and then, with the rage of a mad dog, Sanchez struck his teeth deep into my cheek.

Made No Cry, No Struggle.

With a thrill of exultation I gripped the knife, driving instantly the keen blade to its hilt into the man's side. He made no cry, no struggle—the set teeth unlocked, and he fell limply back on the sand, his head lapped by the waves.

The fellow lay motionless, his face upturned to the sky, but invisible except in dim outline. I rested my ear over his heart, detecting no murmur of response; touched the veins of his wrist, but found there no answering throb of life.

With the death-dealing knife still gripped in my hand I raced forward along the narrow strip of sand, reckless of what I might encounter. I ran on until I reached the sloop. Through the gloom concealing the deck I could perceive only dim figures, a riot of men, battling furiously hand to hand, yet out of the ruck loomed through the darkness in larger outlines than the others—Cochose, the negro. I leaped at the fellow and struck with the keen knife, missing the heart but plunging the blade deep into the flesh of the shoulder. The next instant I was in a bear's grip, the very breath crushed out of me, yet, by some chance, my one arm remained free, and I drove the sharp steel into him twice before he forced the weapon from my fingers. I thrust an elbow beneath the brute's chin, and thus forced his head back until the neck cracked.

He was too strong, too immense of stature. Apparently unweakened by his wounds, the giant negro, thoroughly aroused, exerted his mighty muscles, and, despite my utmost effort at resistance, thrust me back against the stern rail, where the weight of his body pinned me helplessly. With a roar of rage he drove his huge fist into my face, but happily was too close to give much force to the blow. My own hands, gripping the neckband of his coarse shirt, twisted it tight about the great throat until, in desperation, panting for breath, the huge brute actually lifted me in his arms and hurled me backward headlong over the rail. I struck something as I fell, yet rebounding from this splash into the deep water and went down so nearly unconscious as to make not even the slightest struggle. And yet I came up once more to the surface, arising by sheer chance directly beneath the small dory—which my body must have struck as I fell—towing by a painter astern of the sloop, and fortunately retained sense enough to cling desperately to this first thing my hands touched, and thus remained concealed.

The dory caught in some current, floated at the very extremity of its slender towline, and in consequence the sloop appeared little more than a mere smudge, when my eyes endeavored to discover its outlines. Evidently the bloody work had been completed, for now all was silent on board. Then came the voice of Estada in a gruff inquiry:

"So you are hiding here, Cochose? What are you looking for in the sea?"

"What? Why that d—d Englishman. Mon Dieu! He fought me like a mad rat."

"The Englishman, you say? He was here then? It was he you battled with? What became of the fellow?"

"He went down there, senior. The dog stabbed me three times. It was either he or I to go."

"You mean you threw him overboard?"

"Ay, with his ribs crushed in, and not a breath left in his d—d body. He's never come up even—I've watched and there has not been so much as a ripple where he sank."

The two must have hung in silence over the rail staring down. I dared not advance my head to look, nor even move a muscle of my body in the water.

"How came you aft here?"

"Because that fellow leaped the rail from the wharf. I saw him, and we met at the wheel."

"From the wharf, you say? He was not aboard, then? Santa Maria! I know not what that may mean. Yet what difference, so he be dead. Anderson, Mendez, throw that carrion overboard—no, bullies, never mind; let them lie where they are, and sink an auger in the sloop's bottom. What is that out yonder, Cochose?"

"A small boat, senior—a dory, I make it."

"Cut the rope and send it adrift. Now come along with me."

The darker loom of the sloop vanished slowly, as the slight current sweeping about the end of the wharf drifted the released boat to which I clung outward into the bay. There was scarcely a ripple to the sea, and yet I felt that the boat was steadily drifting out into deep water. I was still strangely weak, barely able to retain my grasp. Finally I mustered every ounce of remaining energy in one supreme effort and succeeded in dragging my body up out of water over the boat's stern, sinking helplessly forward into the bottom. The moment this was accomplished every sense deserted me, and I lay there motionless, totally unconscious.

I shall never know how long I remained thus. Yet this time could not have been great. As though awakening from sleep a faint consciousness returned. Then the sharp pain of my wounds, accentuated by the sting of salt water, brought me swift realization of where I was and the circumstances bringing me there. I had evidently lost considerable blood, yet this had already ceased to flow, and a very slight examination served to convince me that the knife slashes were none of them serious. My other injuries were merely bruises to add to my discomfort—the result of blows dealt me by Sanchez and Cochose, aggravated by the bearlike hug of the giant negro. Indeed, I awoke to the discovery that I was far from being a dead man; and, inspired by this knowledge, the various incidents of the night flashed swiftly back into my mind.

No gleam of light appeared in any direction; no sound echoed across the dark waste of water. It was clearly impossible for me to attempt any return to the wharf through the impenetrable black curtain which shut me in. What, then, could I do? What might I still hope to accomplish? Those fellows had swept the sloop clean, and had doubtless long ago scuttled it. They would suddenly find themselves leaderless, unguided. Would that suffice to stop them? Would the discovery of his body halt his followers and send them rushing back to their boat, eager to get safely away? This did not seem likely. Estada knew of my boarding the sloop from the wharf, and would at once connect the fact of my being ashore with the killing of Sanchez. This would satisfy him there was no further danger. Besides, these were not men to flee in panic.

Surely not with that ruffian Estada yet alive to lead them, and the knowledge that fifty thousand pounds was yonder in that unguarded house, with no one to protect the treasure but two old men asleep, and the women. The women!—Dorothy! What would become of her? Into whose hands would she fall in that foul division of spoils? Estada's? And I, afloated and helpless in this boat, what could I do?

AUTO IS WRECKED: TWO ARE INJURED

and when Anderson saw that the accident could not be averted he reached over and turned the steering wheel so that the automobile would swerve to the South. An unusual feature of the accident was that although the traction car was traveling north the automobile was thrown to the south. Both front wheels of the roadster were torn off, the wind shield shattered, the fenders bent and the motor disabled.

Resident on Sixth street heard the crash and hurried to the assistance of the occupants of the automobile. For a while it was feared that the men had received serious internal injuries. Witnesses declare that the escape of the motorists was miraculous.

MORE RED BLOOD AND STEADIER NERVES FOR RUN DOWN PEOPLE

The World Demands, Strong, Vigorous,
Keen-Minded, Men and Women

It has been said of Americans that they work their habits over-time.

Many become nervous and inefficient by overwork. By worry, despondency, social affairs, robbing brain and body of needed rest; excessive use of tobacco, indulgence in strong alcoholic drink—excesses of every kind that burn up the vital powers so necessary in these trying times to make both men and women fit to be of help to themselves and others.

It is time to be temperate in all things. The man or woman with impaired nerves caused by impoverished blood lacks vigor, the ambition, the endurance and the keen mind of those who avoid excesses.

Timidity, despondency, fear, trembling hands, want of confidence and even cowardliness, are due in a large measure to abused nerves.

People with plenty of red blood corpuscles and strong, healthy nerves have no desire to shirk work and lean on others for guidance and support. There is hardly a nerve-shattered man or woman (unless of an organic disease) in America today who cannot become alert and clear in mind; vigorous and energetic in body in a very few weeks and at trifling cost.

To become strong and ambitious, to feel that work is not drudgery; to have steady nerves, abundance of red blood and power of endurance; to be not only a man but as men now go, a superman, you must take seven tablets of Bio-feren every day for seven days—and take them faithfully.

Take two after each meal and one at bedtime and after seven days take one only after meal until the supply is exhausted.

Then if you feel that any claim made in this special notice is untrue—if your nerves are not twice as steady as before; if you do not feel ambitious, more vigorous and keen-minded, the pharmacist who dispensed the tablets to you will gladly hand you back just what you paid for them.

Bio-feren is without doubt the grandest remedy for nervous, rundown, weak, anemic men and women ever offered direct through druggists and is not at all expensive. All druggists in this city and vicinity have a supply on hand—sell many packages.
